

Dr. Kitty Oliver, Director

<http://proteus.fau.edu/raceandchange>

White Writers Writing About Race

Student writer-filmmaker Ryan Tober talks with author Dr. Andrew Furman, professor of literature and creative writing at Florida Atlantic University, about his approach to writing about race. He discusses the importance of representing everyone's point of view without coming across as racist, all the while knowing that he's writing something ultimately centered from his point of view. He wonders whether race can ever be accurately portrayed, but sees how people need to feel uncomfortable sometimes.